

SoBran, Inc. Announces Joint Venture with MailSurity Systems, Inc.

FAIRFAX, VA (April 7, 2009) – SoBran, Inc., a security and support services company, announced today the signing of a Joint Venture agreement with New York City-based MailSurity Systems, Inc., a leading digital mail software company.

This Joint Venture agreement focuses on a new service offering of Digital Mail, the conversion of paper mail into digital images for distribution to the recipient's desktop, which enables viewing via a web-browser. MailSurity developed the proprietary software that makes this possible.

Combined with MailSurity's software, SoBran's "Best In Class" chemical, biological, radiological/nuclear, and explosive (CBRNE) mail, packaging, and cargo screening and protection now provides an ultra-secure processing system that guarantees ultimate safety in mail security.

A global leader in mail (CBRNE) contamination control, containment, and sanitization, SoBran designs, integrates, manages, and performs comprehensive mail security and screening services for the U.S. Department of Defense and other classified, high-level government facilities. SoBran handles multiple mail streams including: ultra-sensitive, classified, accountable, and time-sensitive mail for senior executives as well as high-ranking government, military, and intelligence personnel.
