

SAFEMAIL[®] DC

protects your operations, your employees and your reputation.

It's not "if,"
but "when."

Threatening letters and packages are received every day.

Far from declining, the number of suspicious pieces of mail, including those containing improvised explosive devices, is holding steady, according to the U.S. Postal Service.

The SafeMail® DC mail screening facility is a first in the metropolitan area, providing multiple commercial clients with affordable protection from mail terrorism threats. We pick up your mail, screen it, and deliver it promptly to your door.

You don't have to allocate space or staff, or expose your team to potential threats. SafeMail® DC eliminates hazardous mail before it reaches your door.

Don't let this happen to you.

The goal of a mail terrorist is to disrupt and generate publicity.

In a matter of minutes, a mail threat could force your employees to be evacuated. Staff scrubbed down by a hazmat crew, their images broadcast on national television.

Mail threats are a low-cost, accessible form of terrorism. For the price of a stamp, your organization is at risk for disruption or real harm.

Even a hoax letter can cripple operations for hours. A hazardous one could shut down your office for days or longer, at great cost to your business.

Not on our watch.

A custom screening plan will be developed for you.

Why aren't more mail threats in the news every day?

They are detected by mail screening experts with a concern for privacy and discretion.

At the forefront of mail security.

SoBran has been keeping clients safe from mail borne attacks since 2001, when the U.S. Army asked us to develop and operate their mail screening program.

SoBran helped the General Services Administration define national mail security standards, while securing mail for clients such as the Department of Homeland Security and Wall Street institutions.

Guided by retired members of the U.S. military, U.S. Secret Service and law enforcement, we have continuously evolved the SafeMail® approach to become the gold standard in protection against mail threats.
